J. W. DAVIS UNANIMOUSLY NOMINATED LANDSLIDE STARTS AT 2:20 AS ILLINOIS SWITCHES

CONVENTION ADJOURNS AT 2:45; HOPE TO NAME RUNNING MATE TONIGHT

Uproar Following Nomination of Davis Temporarily Halted as Recess Taken Until 7:30 (Xenia Time) Wednesday Evening.

Madison Square Garden, New York City, July 9.—Selection by the Democratic party of a vice-president as running mate for the new presidential nominee, John W. Davis, of West Virginia, will probably take place at the extra session Wednesday night.

An effort to stampede the convention from the floor in favoring Senator T. J. Walsh, of Montana, permanent chairman of the convention, for the vice-presidency, was thwarted by Walsh himself who insisted on an adjournment in order to give the question proper consideration.

Josephus Daniels of North Carolina, former secretary of the navy, moved the adjournment, while cries of "Walsh, Walsh, Walsh" were coming from the delegates on the floor. He suggested that in order that "wisdom may in spire wisdom" the convention adjourn until 7:30 o'clock tonight, Central standard time to select a running mate to Davis.

M'ADOO CLEARS SITUATION BY DROPPING OUT

Letter to Chairman Walsh Announces He Has Given Up.

Madison Square Garden, New York, July 9.—William G. McAdoo early this morning released his delegates as the Democratic National Convention went into its 100th futile ballot at the beginning of its third week.

Earlier in the session Governor Smith had informed the convention through Franklin D. Roosevelt that as soon as Mr. McAdoo signified his withdrawal from the contest he would do so also.

Mr. McAdoo signified his action in a letter to Chairman Walsh of the convention. The text of Mr. Mc-Adoo's letter follows:

"Dear Senator Walsh:
"I am profoundly grateful to the splendid men and women who have with such extraordinary loyalty supported me in the unprecedented struggle for a great cause.

"The convention has been in session two weeks and appears to be unable to make a nomination under the two-thirds rule. This is an unfortunate situation imperilling party success.

"I feel that if I should withdraw my name from the convention I should betray the trust confided in me by the people in many states which have sent delegates here to support me.

"And yet I am unwilling to contribute to the continuation of a hopeless deadlock. Therefore I have determined to leave my friends and supporters free to take such action as in their judgment may best serve the interests of the party.

"Governor Smith's invitation to Mc-Adoo to get out of the picture, promising to do so himself, when—and only when—he did, left the McAdoo managers cold. They would have none of
it. An hour after the Smith bombshell, David L. Rockwell and other McAdoo managers were in the midst of their hardest drive for delegates and predicting Mr. McAdoo's nomination.

"Four ballots changed their minds.

In those four ballots, Mr. McAdoo failed utterly to alter his standing.

On the contrary, it sagged from ballot to ballot, until once again McAdoo was in danger of losing his seat to Mr. Mc-Adoo from the convention platform in the shape of an invitation for mutual withdrawal for the good of the party.

"The convention has been in session two weeks and appears to be un-
two-thirds rule. This is an unfortunate situation imperilling party success.

my name from the convention I should betray the trust confided in

less deadlock. Therefore I have determined to leave my friends and sup-
their judgment may best serve the interests of the party.

"I have made this fight for the principles and ideals of progressive democracy and righteousness and for the defeat of the reactionary and wet elements in the party which threaten to dominate it. For these principles and ideals I shall continue to fight.

"I hope that this convention will never yield to reaction and privilege and that the Democratic party will always hold aloft the torch which was carried to such noble heights by Woodrow Wilson.

W. G. McAdoo."

When McAdoo's letter was read to the convention he stood almost exactly as Governor Smith after two weeks of balloting. McAdoo had 353.5 votes and Smith had 353.

FIVE GUARDSMEN ON DUTY AT LORAIN ARE IN SERIOUS CONDITION AFTER DRINKING HOOCH

Lorain, O., July 9.—A military court martial will be convened for the trial of five members of the 147th Motor Transport Company, of the Ohio National Guard, Columbus, made ill from the effects of drinking poison liquor.
Brigadier General John R. McQuigg announced here day.

All others charged with the same offense will also face court martial, General McQuigg added.

The five men were greatly improved today and physicians at St. Joseph's hospital where they were taken last night, expressed the view that they would recover.

It was at first feared they were victims of wood alcohol poisoning but their quick recovery has dissipated this view.

Police Chief Walker is attempting to establish identity of the vendor of three quarts of liquor said to have been taken to the company barracks by some of the men.

The men taken to the hospital for treatment are:

Sergeant Charles Artis.
Sergeant Herbert Van Dyke.
Corporal Raymond Koss.
Private Ira Graham.
Private Clarence Kinder.
All are from Columbus.

Columbus, July 9.—It was announced that the Ohio state fair will open on Sunday this year for the first time in the history of the state. Also, for the first time, the state fair will get under way with a religious service. In opening the fair on Sunday, Aug. 24, the state department of agriculture is trying to avoid the usual crowds of curious who try to beat the game by looking things over without paying. Also, in supplying a religious service, fair officials believe they will be accommodating many exhibitors who are forced to come to the fair early, but who have no time to go out into town for worship. The Sunday crowd will be composed only of those who would come on that day anyway, officials believe. Admission price will be lower than during the week. No commercial attractions will be permitted to operate.

CANDIDATES TO STUMP OHIO IN PRIMARY FIGHT

Drive Overshadowed By Democrats to Come to Light Soon.

Columbus, July 9.—Political leaders here express the opinion that interest in the Ohio primary election will liven up within a week or two.

The Ohio contest has been overshadowed recently by developments at the Democratic national convention in New York. The gubernatorial aspirants, particularly on the Republican side of the fence, have been quick to realize that with Democracy holding the spotlight on the political stage at the present time, their cries would scarce be heard. But they have not been idle by any means.

James A. White, gubernatorial candidate, who formerly headed the Anti-Saloon league, has been very active in organization work and is mapping out a speaking program which will carry him into every corner of the state. Harry L. Davis has recently opened headquarters on the second floor of the Deshler hotel here, from which his campaign is being directed.

On the 100th ballot, Smith was kept at his usual approximate figure, 351 1/2; McAdoo polled 190; Davis 203 1/2%; Meredith 75 1/2%; Walsh 52 1/2%; Robinson 46%; Glass 35%; Underwood 41 1/2%; while a new boom of 24 votes was launched for Josephus Daniels, from North Carolina.

Numerous conferences were in progress this morning, among the various leaders, seeking to find a man who can command the 732 votes necessary to nominate. Having just broken one deadlock at a terrific cost to party harmony and the delegates' pocketbooks, the leaders were exceedingly anxious this morning to avoid another, if possible.

Roughly speaking, the Smith-Brennan-Guffey coalition, embracing the great industrial states of the north and midwest, looked with favor on the candidacies of Davis and Robinson, while Walsh and Meredith appealed to the McAdoo-Bryan combination.

Strenuous efforts were made last night and this morning to persuade Governor Smith to stand for the vice presidency but when he left the Manhattan Club, heavy eyed and weary from the fortnight's incessant battle, he was in no mood for it.

Few major political gatherings have ever furnished a more dramatic climax to a dramatic convention than was furnished in the garden in the small hours of this morning, after Governor Smith early in the evening had hurried his defi to Mr. Mc-Adoo from the convention platform in
withdrawal for the good of the party.

Adoo to get out of the picture, promising to do so himself, when—and only
when—he did, left the McAdoo managers cold. They would have none of
it. An hour after the Smith bombshell, David L. Rockwell and other McAdoo managers were in the midst
of their hardest drive for delegates
and predicting Mr. McAdoo's nomination.

C. Homer Durand, Coshocton wet candidate, has made a few speeches and soon will open an "intensive speaking tour," according to his managers.

The Durand caravan will travel by motor and will work up and down the principal highways of the state heralded by a brass band and other political pyrotechnics. Mr. Durand is going into the small towns and villages this year, his managers declare. Representatives John L.
Cable of Lima has been getting around in the rural communities where he is not so well known and interviewing political leaders, but his recent misfortune resulting in an injury to one of his eyes will handicap him somewhat in his campaigning strength.

Joseph B. Sieber, the Klan candidate from Akron, has been working quietly, for his voice has not been heard down state, according to political observers.

Governor Donahay is not going to make an aggressive campaign for the nomination. It is his intention not to let campaign duties take him away from the executive duties of the state.

McAdoo dictated the letter that was read to the convention at the end of the 99th ballot.

The Smith vote hung together until it was certain where to go, and Brennan and his allies wanted rest and conferences before taking any steps in this direction.

The officers were enroute from Wilbur Wright Field, near Dayton, to Norton Aviation Field, East Columbus.

"NOISE" AS A POLITICAL INSTRUMENT

The national conventions of the two great parties have an importance which cannot be magnified. From one of them emerges the president of the United States, who is not only head of the greatest nation, but who has power in his government greater than kings or premiers in theirs. Furthermore he is not chosen as the heads of European states are, to hold office during the pleasure of the people's representatives in parliament, but for four years, irremovable excepting by a process which has never been used. The party convention should be then a solemn occasion, a deliberative assembly, a party congress considerate always of its dignity, and its peculiar place in our system of government. It should be witness to the 10,000 who see it and the millions who hear it and who read about it of its own sense of its supreme purpose.

The Madison Square garden convention has been a shrieking mob. It has not given any vocal or visible testimony that it is about serious business at all. It has been devoid of dignity. It has been merely a noise making marathon.

The Republican and Democratic parties have both been guilty of this degradation of the national convention and when we have had third parties of any considerable power they have been worse. Of the two great parties the Democrats have been the worst offenders. The evil is of long standing, but it has been cumulative in volume. It has reached its climax in the garden convention, not that the cheering has been more prolonged or trying here, for honest cheering, spontaneous shouts of approval for a speaker or a candidate are legitimate enough. It is the "demonstration" planned in advance, guaranteed to continue longer than some other candidate's "demonstration" that offends. It is the "demonstration" carried on by packed galleries, equipped with horns and sirens and other shrieking devices operated by paid operators, who turn levers to rasp the nerves until the chairman is ready and powerful to stop it. It is a procession of yellers with banners sneaked into the hall to parade among the delegates to their increasing exasperation. It is movie actresses dressed strikingly to lead parades with a feigned hysteria, mimic of the pictures they have seen of the mad women of the French revolution.

A TIME TO KEEP YOUR EYES OPEN

A memorandum is being circulated widely among the voters of the United States, purporting to show that by permitting the sale of a "healthful glass of beer, which would have a sufficient alcoholic content to satisfy the American workingman," and taxing it heavily, the American Government could raise a large enough sum yearly to make it unnecessary "to pass confiscatory income tax and inheritance tax legislation." It is quite generally agreed, however, in the thousands of families which have benefited by prohibition that, even after paying the present income tax, etc., they have more spending money than before the Volstead Act was passed. And under this proposed plan they would have to pay the beer tax as well as buy the beer, for in the last analysis, of course, it is the people, and not the brewers, who would contribute this large sum yearly to the Government. When brewing concerns claim to be operating from altruistic motives it is time to keep one's eyes particularly wide open.

WHAT WILL GERMANY SAY?

Two factors, as yet impossible to estimate, will determine the success or failure of the Dawes plan for the rehabilitation of German finances. The first is the temper of the German people; the second, the opinion of the investing public in the United States and England. Germany has already manifested a marked lack of enthusiasm for the report. The Germans have been so thoroughly schooled in the belief that any impartial and truthful statement of their financial performances since the war is a cruel and malicious attack upon their country that they will unquestionably be strongly antagonized by certain phases of the Dawes document. The Commission does not ignore the fact that, at the time when Germany was declaring that under no circumstances could it pay reparations, it was setting aside large sums of money for the re-building and re-equipping of its railroads, was making heavy expenditures for internal improvements and was expending billions on the perfection of its industrial system in preparation for commercial competition with the rest of the world. The commission points out that at the very time that Germany was appealing to other nations to feed German children there was being invested in foreign countries or deposited in foreign banks by German citizens funds amounting to about 7,000,000,000 of gold marks. So much of the report stands as an indictment of the forces, industrial and political, that have dominated Germany since the war.

THE WORLD

Each day the sun comes up at dawn to smile upon us all, To see us toiling at our tasks, so great and yet so small; And here it finds a dream begun and there a dream complete, And where stood trees but yesterday now runs a city street.

How many, many years ago the sun bestrode the sky And saw a few bare figures put their barbarous habits by,

And fell the trees for comfort's sake, and shamed the ugly stone, And start to build a better world than life had ever known.

Perhaps it was the fight to live, the urge to cheat the storm, To meet the winters, cold and long, with shelter safe and warm; But day by day the sun arose and looked on earth below And saw that man was upward bound his eyes with light aglow.

Each day the sun comes up at dawn and sees us as we are; It sees the buildings we have reared, the ships we send afar,

And patiently it waits and watches and believes.

And glories in each better thing which man at last achieves.

HUSBAND IS HELD WHILE PROBE OF WIFE'S DEATH MADE

Columbus, O., July 9.—Believing that Kate Mason, 33, was brutally beaten to death, police today are holding Walter Mason, 33, huckster, her husband, while Coroner Murphy conducts an autopsy to determine cause of the woman's death.

The coroner said the woman had been beaten all over her body and that probably was due to a fracture of the skull. Called by neighbors, police found the Mason woman's body in a room at 278 1/2 East Livingston Avenue. Mason said he and his wife had been on a prolonged spree. Although admitting they had quarreled, he denied he brutally assaulted her.

The lower court opinion was a victory for Mally S. Daugherty of Washington Court House, O., brother of the former attorney general.

Health Hints by the Father of Physical Culture

BERNARD MACPADDEN

In Anemia there is a deficiency in the number of the red blood corpuscles or of hemoglobin. The general symptoms are: pallor of the skin, which is cold and sometimes clammy; a soft, feeble pulse which may be rapid; weakness with a tendency to fainting spells. There is lack of appetite, generally constipation and sometimes indigestion; shortness of breath on exertion is marked, and combined with palpitation, nervousness, listlessness, irritability, headache and neuralgia.

There are two forms of anemia, the acute and chronic. The general characteristics of both are a lack of nutritive elements within the blood. Acute anemia is always produced by a loss of blood. Occasionally a surgical operation is responsible for the malady; or again, the bursting of an ulcer in the stomach, or the rupture of a blood vessel in any part of the body. Some of the diseases peculiar to women often produce this form of disease. It may develop within an hour from a copious drainage from the veins, or it may be several days in reaching a climax in consequence of repeated small hemorrhages.

Women are much more liable to chronic anemia than are men, principally owing to the fact that they have about one-tenth less blood in proportion to the weight of the body than has the other sex. Intestinal parasites, as worms, are a fruitful exciting cause, likewise chronic dyspepsia. A fever, by its interference with nutritive processes, will also produce an anemic condition.

The direct causes which produce these various forms of anemia are, like those to which nearly all diseases that vex humanity can be attributed, the result of impurities circulating within the blood and lymph streams, with a consequent decrease in general vitality.

In the treatment of this complaint it is required primarily that one undergo a general blood-purifying process.

The first essential in attempting a regimen of this kind is naturally a fast.

LOVE-OR FAME?

by

VIOLET DARE
Author of "The Half-Time Wife"

WHO'S WHO AND WHAT'S HAPPENED.

DOROTHY LANE goes to New York to visit

PERSIS GRANT and try to break into the movies. She meets

LAWRENCE FRENCH, a young publicity man, and after a quarrel with Persis, goes to a girl's club with SYLVIA STEARNS and lives there. Through French she meets

JOHN SEWARD, a famous star, and is engaged as his leading lady in an independent production that he is making. Seaward, known as "the great lover of the screen," falls in love with her. Realizing that she cared more for Lawrence French than for him, she is much upset. Returning from a location trip early one morning, she sees Sylvia and Lawrence driving to the railway station together, and feels sure that they are eloping.

XXV—ALL'S WELL!

I TOOK off my hat, ran my fingers through my hair—it was so thick that it made my head ache—and went into the dining room to sit down near a window and have breakfast. I felt awfully weak and shaky.

It was lovely in there. At the far end, overlooking the back yard, the breakfast things were being laid out on the counter, and Jenny, one of our two maids, was filling the big, shiny urns with coffee and hot chocolate. The other maid had put up the card with the list of dishes and their prices on it—eggs, bacon, ham, cereal, hot muffins, fresh fruit—I knew it so well. And the little tables were all in order, with their painted oilcloth breakfast sets, all garlanded with buttercups and daisies, and their bowls of flowers. It was such a dear little place; just sitting there looking at it made me feel more at peace.

"Now, Miss Lane—here's your coffee all ready. Shall I bring it to you?" Jenny called to me.

"Oh, no; I want to get it myself," I cried, hurrying down the room for my tray and silver. I felt that getting back into the ordinary little details of my old life would make it easier for me to face the changed conditions.

It seemed nice to stand there at the counter and pick out a bowl of cereal and some berries, and have Jennie pour a great cup of steaming coffee for me, and get hot toast from the kitchen.

Tomorrow—The Clouds Clear.

LEAVING ON TRIP

(By Wardle Press Service)
Yellow Springs, July 8—Joseph A. Newhouse, of Seattle, Wash., who received the degree of B. S. from Antioch College at the June graduation, is leaving this week for a trip through British Columbia, close to the Alaskan border.

Mr. Newhouse leaves Yellow Springs for Whitefish, Mont., where he will spend a week or ten days. Following this, and after a short stay in Seattle, he will board ship for Prince Rupert, British Columbia. After visiting in this northern region, the traveler and adventurer will return to the States to take up business.

Before his matriculation at Antioch College, Mr. Newhouse attended the University of Washington at Seattle. While at Antioch, he has been in the retail leather goods business as manager of the Antioch Specialties Co. His chief interest, however, has been engineering. His plans for the fall are not yet completed.
